

September 9, 2011

Dear Networkinglinks Community,

This coming Sunday our nation will once again come together to acknowledge and remember all those who lost their lives on September 11, 2001.

Each year since this national tragedy, individuals and businesses alike pay tribute by volunteering or supporting a charity of personal choice, by doing good deeds, or helping someone in need. These simple acts of kindness honor the memory of our fallen citizens and heroes.

This year on the 10th Anniversary of September 11, Networkinglinks will commemorate the day supporting the Municipal Art Society's efforts to keep the lights shining by making an online donation to Tribute in Light – “one of the most powerful and healing works of public art ever produced...a world-renowned icon of remembrance, honoring those who were lost, as well as those who worked so hard to get our city through that terrible trial”. The goal is “...to keep this important memorial shining for years to come”.

Please join us in supporting “September 11th Day of Service and Remembrance”. Below you will find several ways you can commemorate the 10th anniversary of September 11th.

Visit <http://911day.org>, as well as <http://national911memorial.org>, <http://voicesofseptember11.org>, and <http://tributeWTC.org>, to learn more about September 11th and the many lives that were lost and changed because of it.

Regardless of how you observe September 11, know that we can take great pride in connecting with one another to help people in need in honor of this day and its events.

Sincerely,

Lydia Perez, Munish Chopra & Peter Needle
Managing Directors of Networkinglinks
